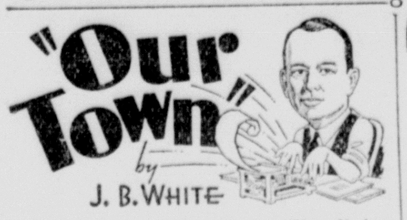
BODY IS FOUND IN LONELY CANYON

SAN GABRIEL TO CELEBRATE ON SUNDAY APRIL 26TH



The women of 1,395 families living in New York were asked what sort of homes they would like to live in. The answer was homes with windows in them. They wanted windows that opened into the outer air instead of into light shafts, that artificial contact with out-doors peculiar to the tenements. They wanted no more rooms without windows of any kind.

All of which the women are reputed to have replied to the questioning of PWA workers and social agency investigators conducting an inquiry to obtain information in connection with low-cost housing plans. They reported, furthermore, that of 7,015 persons in the 1,395 families interviewed, nearly half slept in rooms with no windows at all. And after windows, what? Next in order came the desire for bathtubs, central heat and hot water. The wife and mother in the tenement also would like adequate closet space. When it comes to closets, it would seem another case in which Julia O'Grady and the colonel's lady are sisters under the skin. As to the surroundings of the dream home of the tenement woman, it is adjacent to playgrounds, and if there are grass plots there are also benches upon which tired womankind may rest in the open air.

Unless this was one of those inquiries in which their answer was too clearly suggested by the investigator, the women of the tenements apparently have a sound regard for the essentials of recent housing. They want the things other people, a little better placed, regard as essentials. And there is a genuine appeal to public sympathy when they give a foremost place among the things they would like to have, to windows.

Although the National Broadcasting Company has made such progress with the principle of television as to warrant the beginning of practical field tests, President David Sarnoff warns the public that only an approach has really been made to establishment of such service as an adjunct to broadcasting.

On that point, Mr. Sarnoff says: "We have gone much beyond the standards fixed elsewhere for experimental equipment. But this is a far cry from the expectations of such service aroused by pure speculation on the subject. There is a long and difficult road ahead for those who would pioneer in the development and establishment of a public television service."

But who will question that that long and difficult road will be eventually traveled? Considering what has been accomplished in a field whose mysteries are still largely unrevealed, we probably will not be stretching the fact unduly by visioning a not far removed future when sight and sound will be combined in radio receptions. Science may not actually know much about those manifold waves which disturb the ocean of ether in which we live. It may not know exactly what ether is, no more than it knows just what electricity is. But it has often proved that it can do wonders with what it does not know much about.

So in the course of time, science will do wonders with television. Having got hold of the tail of that dog, it won't let go until it has reached its bark, no matter how long and how difficult is the way.

Perhaps some day someone, without resort to astrology or some other debatable method, will be able to tell us scientifically why the fates choose some particular year to lavish on the world a considerable group of famous men and women and then, in between, withhold her gifts to mankind.

What, for instance, was so propitious about the year 1809 that Darwin, Lincoln, Tennyson, Gladstone, Oliver Wendell Holmes and Edgar Allen Poe should all happen to arrive

CORNER STONE FOR NEW SCHOOL TO MARK PATRIOTIC CEREMONIES APRIL 26

San Gabriel will celebrate Centennial year by laying the corner stone of her new school building in a patriotic ceremony, Sunday April 26, at 2:30 o'clock. The ceremony will take place in front of the site on which the new building is being constructed.

Wayman, director of WPA, Father Tom O'Sullivan will give an address on the old Missions which were built along the San Gabriel River in 1746 and 1749; Guy T. Newton, County Superintendent, will add his words of endorsement. Johnnie Kunz, high school student, will give a tribute to the Father of Texas High Schools, Lamar. There will be special music by a high school chorus and a visiting band will play Texas songs. Superintendent T. N. Wood will serve as chairman of the ceremony.

All the trustees of San Gabriel High School, past and present, will have a special seat of honor. The cornerstone will be duly sealed, holding many treasures.

Some few months ago we heard on every corner—a new school building at San Gabriel! Yes, if natural resources can be found, for the government will make a grant, a PWA project, provided we can secure the natural resources to build a building.

The school board wondered—Then a flash, a light! They remembered the stories about the tearing down of the old Mission walls, San Xavier Mission walls. The farmers had used the stones from the walls for well curbings, chimneys, and foundations for houses. J. A. Clark, deceased, used the squared stones to curb the water well on his farm. The well has caved in now, and the rocks from the

CENTENNIAL TO HONOR TEXAS CZECH CITIZENS

The part played by Czech citizens in the building of the Southwest will be vividly portrayed by the Czech exhibit at the Texas Centennial Exposition which opens here June 6.

Many Czechs fought in General Sam Houston's army a hundred years ago when the Texas colonists won their independence from Mexico. These heroes will be memorialized in the million dollar Hall of State at the $25,000,000 Southwestern World's Fair. Frederick Limsky, a young Czech playing his fife, led the Texas soldiers in their famous attack on the Mexican lines at San Jacinto, where Santa Anna, President of Mexico, was defeated and captured.

A committee of Texas Czech citizens composed of Dr. Joe Kopecky of San Antonio, Judge Charles E. Chernosky and Dr. Henry R. Maresh of Houston and John G. Bubak or Dallas are arranging the historical Czech exhibit and have already reserved space at the Exposition. The deeds of Czech soldiers in the Texas revolution will be depicted, along with various phases of Czech development in Texas. The scope of the exhibit will include the Czech pioneers of the state, their settlements in the Southwest and their importance to Texas today.

Czech day at the Texas Centenniai Exposition will be July 19. The exhibit, however, will be maintained throughout the period of the Exposition.

OLD SETTLERS WILL MEET IN CAMERON

Texas Centennial Year may see a reunion in Cameron of Old Settlers, it became known here Saturday when a company of old timers spinning yarns in the court house first thought of bringing the pioneers together.

A. J. Gunnels of Liberty came to the Herald office and requested publication of the proposed plans for a Reunion of the Old Settlers. Uncle Jack is one of the old timers who can remember many things of interest because he was here when history was in the making.

He once went to Ditch Valley near San Gabriel to dig for gold. They found some bars of lead in the ground where the Spanish Priests in 1746 built three temporary missions to Christianize the Indians.

The plan is for old settlers to gather in Cameron for a day to celebrate and to recall the years that have elapsed since Texas became free from Spanish and Mexican dominion.

Mr. Gunnels said that the date for this gathering would be fixed some time soon and all plans announced in connection with the program.

J. M. Ralston and daughter, Mrs. Paul H. Brown left today for Houston where they will meet and bring back to Cameron Mrs. J. M. Ralston who has been in that city the past two weeks receiving medical treatment.

ED. WALSTON MISSING 2 MONTHS IDENTIFIED

The partly decomposed body of Ed. Walston, 63, of Cameron, was found in a canyon 500 yards from the public road running from Maysfield to Calvert at a point known as Wildcat Hill at 3 a. m. Sunday by a party of fox hunters, led by Penn Wolf, district clerk.

The growling of dogs attracted the attention of hunters. Upon investigation they found the body in the canyon obscured by underbrush and cedar brakes.

District Clerk Penn Wolf, in a statement telling of the finding of the body said: "About three o'clock this morning, we heard our dogs growling. We investigated and found them around the body. The head was lying away from the body. The man was fully dressed having on khaki pants and khaki shirt and a new black hat was lying nearby. We summoned the Justice of Peace John Thweatt from Maysfield who gave a verdict of suicide. An automatic pistol was lying by the side of the body and there was a hole through Walston's head."

Mr. Wolf and his companions could not identify the man. Sheriff Kennedy was called and identified the body as that of Ed Walston who had been missing from his home in Cameron since February 22. It is believed he had been dead since his disappearence here. The family could give no rea-

"TARZAN"

Homeless, friendless and hungry, in the early hours of morning, nearly a year ago, Tarzan entered our back yard and was heard lapping water from a tub. When daylight came he was found cuddled on the front porch asleep.

I attempted to approach him, to console and caress him. In his eyes was a wistful look mingled with awe and mistrust, and although he lingered about the yard, he kept many paces beyond my reach.

It could readily be seen that he was hungry for a friend as well as food; but his experience (judging from the scars upon his body) had taught him to be cautious and prudent.

I fed him . . . gratitude, almost human, beamed from his eyes . . . yet he did not give way to feelings that he had met a friend and worthy master.

Days passed on. Tarzan remained and received his meals, and the awe gradually faded from his brown eyes. One day after I had coaxed and plead with him for some time, he ventured up to me trembling and crouched at my feet . . . this was the dawn of trust . . . the beginning of a loyal friendship that ripened as days and weeks went by.

Time marched on. Tarzan became a permanent fixture in our home. He wanted to go with me to work and was sadly disappointed because he was not permitted to do so; yet he always met me upon my return, and was oh, so glad to see me.

But a day came when he failed to meet me . . . the night passed, yet Tarzan was absent . . . another day. We wondered why he remained away so long. Could he have tired of his new home? Then we learned why he had not returned (though he did return to the domain of the little home unseen). We found him near the scene where we had heard him lap water . . . he was dead—apparently a victim of poison.

Perhaps Tarzan had regained his confidence in humanity, only to learn, too late, that he should have maintained that cautious and prudent attitude displayed those first few days he bargained for my friendship.

Slain innocence is still the severest reproach—the stigma mankind must bear.

I never knew whence he came. He was a derelict Fox Terrier dog. We took him when he needed a home and friends. He has left us . . . but not in quest of another home and friends . . . he has gone where all good little doggies go.

—Robert Browning.

EDITORIAL

With the end of six weeks and a clean page in the gradebook yet to be marked, we find time to rest. Most of our thoughts are on graduating but there are still six more weeks of work before we can do that. How tired we are getting of studying every day with only a few days of rest a week, but we shall be handsomely rewarded when the end of the school comes. If we are patient and work hard we shall receive our diploma which is our ticket the state-wide judging contests to be held at Texas A. & M. College, Monday, April 27. More than a hundred teams will be competing in each division for the privilege of representing Texas in a National contest to be held in October. Last year the C. H. Yoe team from Cameron tied Cisco for second place in the state contest with 115 teams competing. Cameron did not have a poultry team in the state contest. The team members have not been named but eligible boys for the two teams have been reduced to nine. In dairying a team of three boys will be chosen from the following: William F. Canady, Jerry Sloet to Yoe High. Let's not look too far ahead because there are many things that must be done now in order to reach our goal. As the Chinese saying goes, "One must first scale the mountain in order to view the plain."

Sweaters Supply Missing Link

By The
PEEPING REPORTER

It is a strange thing how a few sweaters, or what ever one may choose to call them, can bring about such a remarkable change in a group of boys.

Since Coach Wood awarded the football sweaters to the lettermen and squad men of last season, the routine of spring practice has become a game, an ideal, and a tradition that every boy on that practice field knows must be carried out just as it was done in past years. Every boy is fighting to keep the colors of Yoe High flying at the top—not because of the personal honor but because they love their school and know they must safeguard its traditions.

Everyone will agree that little interest was shown by the boys during the first part of the spring training, but after all, most of the boys have never played high school football before and they just didn't have that inspiration that is so vital to any winning squad. But somehow the moral has changed and every boy is fighting for a place on the team next fall.

Coach Wood proved his leadership ability during the first three weeks of the training by keeping the squad together when it seemed all lost. His pleasing personality has led the Yoemen on to victory before and it will do it again next fall.

Coach Wood is faced with the problem of building a team around only 6 lettermen, but anything can happen and Coach Wood is the man to make it happen. The line will be much lighter than the line of last year but it promises to be a speedy one. The backfield, led by the swift kicking of Joe McLean and the accurate passing of Dero Underwood, will prove to be a better machine than the one of last year.

Without a doubt this sudden change was brought about by the inspiration received by the boys when they saw the Yoemen sweaters on parade.

"BRIGHT LIGHTS" IN COUNTRY

"Well, folks, I gotta see the bright lights." Those were the words of the dissatisfied farm boy of yesterday as he waved his last good-bye to Mr. and Mrs. Farmer and set out for the city—to satisfy his lure for the "bright lights."

The farm boy never returns to fill his father's place between the plow handles—to till the soil—to feed and clothe a great nation. He deserted the noble work of his father because of the psychological effect of gleaming lights on his youthful fancies.

It looks as if the farm boy will have to find another excuse to go to the city now, because the "bright lights" are coming to the country—yes, electric power and lights to replace the old fashion, more expensive power of farm home and lights—real lights to replace the old kerosene lamps.

The Texas Power & Light Company say they will "bring the life of the farmer to light," and its a very good time to do so, since the farmers are sitting up half the nights trying to figure out what Uncle Sam will have them do the next day. To say the least a good light will save the farmers' eyes.

5c Piece Found On San Jacinto Field Is Owned By B. F. Wiese

Thirty five years ago B. F. Wiese of Jones Prairie was walking across the battlefield at San Jacinto in company with a companion Clyde Smith he had met that morning in Houston and they had decided to visit the historic spot.

A recent storm had blown a large pine tree partly out of the ground. The roots of the tree were exposed and there in bold relief sticking to a root was an American 5c piece

The other day Mr. Wiese brought the coin to Cameron and to the Herald office. He found it in 1901. It was coined in 1835 and is slightly smaller than a dime. It has the Liberty Head and 13 stars. On the opposite side is the eagle and the United States of America, 5c.

Mr. Wiese has never seen another 5c piece like this one and no one locally has seen one at any time. His belief is that some one of the soldiers of Sam Houston's army lost the coin; however there is not a plausable explanation of how it came to be secreted in the roots of the old pine tossed down by the storm.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

This is the largest specimen seen in Cameron in many years.

Maybe Not Crazy, But a Little Strange

Travelers Ins. Co. Safety Service.

This illustration may be a slight bit over done, because "our fellow human beings" may not be quite as crazy as the artist has pictured them in the above. But at least by the way the artist spells out "human beings," the inference is that he regards a good many drivers and pedestrians as "cock-eyed." If sometimes drivers and pedestrians could see themselves as others see them, many would be in for some great surprises. This would be especially so when drivers do those little things which tell the wide world the kind of persons they are.

Oh wad some power the giftie gie us
To see oursel's as others see us!
It wad frae monie a blunder free us,

It's a good notion for drivers to look at themselves in the looking glass once in a while to try to figure out just how they may appear to their fellow men when they drive as though they had the only car registered and no such person as a pedestrian ever existed.

FARMERS MUST START BOOKKEEPING APRIL 27

All farmers in Milam County, beginning Monday morning, April 27, will be asked to begin preparing work sheets under the new National Agricultural Conservation Program, says George Banzhaf, caunty agricultural agent.

Community committeemen will have the work sheets in their possession by that date and it is hoped that as many as possibly can will avail themselves of the services of the community committeemen next week due to the limited time in which this sign up must be completed.

A farmer is under no obligation to fill out a work sheet nor to perform in line with the program, but he may have the advantage of learning how his farming operations could be adjusted to qualify. However, a farmer must fill out a work sheet if he is to be eligible to apply for a grant. The program is designed to benefit all persons engaged in farming including share-croppers, tenants, operators and owners. Each can contribute to the program by familiarizing himself with the conditions and by engaging in a soil building program on the land which he himself farms.

Local committeemen will aid each farmer in determining his soil depleting acreage base and necessary and proper practices in order to qualify for payments.

As the government is sharing with farmers the expense of improving the fertility of their farms, said Mr. Banzhaf, farmers should be prepared to furnish committeemen with necessary information and to co-operate in every way possible. All farmers are asked to bring their copies of 1935 contracts or Bankhead Application with them when they come to their committeemen to fill out a work sheet.

Lady Took Cardui When Weak, Nervous

"I can't say enough for Cardui if I talked all day," enthusiastically writes Mrs. L. H. Caldwell, of Statesville, N. C. "I have used Cardui at intervals for twenty-five years," she adds. "My trouble in the beginning was weakness and nervousness. I read of Cardui in a newspaper and decided right then to try it. It seemed before I had taken half a bottle of Cardui I was stronger and was soon up and around."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Comets In Loss

By Clifford Thompson

The Jarrell Cardinals defeated the Cameron Comets 4 to 2 in Sunday's game at Lawless Green field in Cameron. It was the Comets first game of the season on the home field and the boys seemed to show some early season tension by making some costly errors. However, the fans saw a good game of baseball.

The batteries for Jarrell were Lyons, pitcher; Sigler, catcher. Lyons was relieved in the seventh inning by Honneycutt. For the Comets, Schottle pitcher; Bell, catcher. Bell was relieved in the seventh inning by Thompson. Schottle went all the way for th Comets and showed signs of improvement over the previous game.

Jarrell made their first runs in the 5th inning when Stokes and Honeycutt got on bases on single hits and the next two men, Clark and Sigler, got on when the Comets made two consecutive errors allowing Stokes and Honeycutt to score. The Comets scored in the 6th when Williams lined out a two bagger and Worcester singled. Smith scored again for the Comets in the 7th when Miller blasted his 2nd two-bagger. Incidentally, Tex Miller hit three doubles out of four times to the bat in this game. Jarrell scored one run in the 6th inning when Boots Smith errored in center field, allowing Bridges to score from third base. This was the first error marked up for Smith in 28 games on the Comet team, including last season's games. Jarrell scored again in the 9th when they got four hits off Schottle.

Jarrell—four runs; 10 hits; one error.

Comets—two runs; six hits; five errors.

Two base hits: Miller 3, Williams 1.

The Comets will journey to Jarrell for a return game next Sunday, April 26. They will play the Eddy Sluggers on Lawless Green field the following Sunday, May 3.

The Comet team will be materially strengthened for those games by the addition of Irvin Vogelsang, formerly with the Burlington Bearcats. He is an outfielder. Also Dink Chambers formerly of the Conroe Oilers and Houston Grand Prize teams. He is a candidate for pitchers or catchers position.

San Gabriel

old San Xavier Mission lie buried. This is only one of the many illustrations of the uses to which these rocks were put, rocks which stood for a hundred years in a mission wall still serve modern day users, for the rocks are in perfect preservation.

Stones for the San Gabriel School building are being secured from the same source as were the stones for the San Xavier Mission. This conclu sion was reached for the San Gabriel School Board went to the University Librarian and asked her to look up the source of the rock for the missions which were built on the San Xavier River in 1746. She reported that the rocks undoubtedly came from the Balcones Fault line which runs through the heart of Milam County, for it was on thi sline that the San Xavier Mission was located. What more romantic background could be dreamed—utilization of the stones secured from the same source as was stones used by the Spaniards and Indians exactly 190 years ago!

The San Gabriel School building now under construction is to have eleven fully equipped class rooms, a spacious study hall, home economics unit (laboratory and demonstration living room), a vocational-agriculture unit, and a combination gymnasium and auditorium, the only one in existence in Central Texas. With a modern and well equipped building and full accreditation, San Gabriel school offers its students the very best in educational opportunities.

Dr. Herbert Eugene Bolton of the University of California translated the story of the San Xavier Missions in the extinguished College of Santa Cruez de Querltar. Dr. Bolton wrote E. A. Camp, a university classmate, about his translation and said that he believed the site to be nar the town of San Gabriel. Mr. Camp replied that he knew the exact spot and if Mr. Bolton cared to, he would take him to the site. Meager were the remains which Dr. Bolton found, after a journey with Mr. Camp from Rockdale in a buggy. To the historical facts Dr. Bolton fit his translation and found that they agree. As Mr. Camp says, "His translation spoke of a ditch, and there was the ditch; it spoke of a dam, and there was a broken dam; the translation contained such words as Ditch Valley Farm, San Andres Crossing, etc., and we knew and could point these out. The following is based on Dr. Bolton's translation and on different magazine and newspaper articles.

All Texas is planning a Centennial celebration. In another ten years San Gabriel can celebrate a bicentennial, for it was in 1746 that San Xavier Mission on the San Xavier River was temporarily established. This mission was a result of the work of Fray Mariano Francisco de las Dolores y Viana, who for ten years, did missionary work along the San Xavier River in the land of the Tonkawas.

The San Xavier of the Spanish days is the San Gabriel River of today. It joins Little River, the old San Andres, 25 miles before Little River flows into the Brazos. The Ramon-Saint Dennis expedition visited San Xavier in 1716 and gave the river its name. They named Brushy Creek, principal tributary of San Xavier, Arroyo de las Benditas Animas. People of San Antonio knew this country well as a buffalo hunting ground.

In 1745, when providing missions for Central Texas was considered, the merits of the San Xavier River was known. More than the fertility of the soil, more than the irrigation facilities, or more than the beauty of the country, the natives interested the missionaries. The four tribes which played a part in the organization of San Xavier were the Rancheria Grande, the Mayeyes, the Deadoses and the Yojuanes. These four bands numbered 1,228 persons in 1745. As time passed many other tribes joined in establishing San Xavier. The Apaches remained enemies to the tribes of San Xavier.

Fray Mariano served as "Padre" to the tribes and instructed them in the preparation of San Xavier Mission. The sincerity of the Indians was tested when Captain Urritia, of presidio of San Antonio de Valeor, invited the Indians to come to San Antonio where a separate mission would be provided, but the Indians refused to go so far from their relatives, lands, and the Tejas from whom they secured their weapons. They were told that if they entered the mission, that they so wanted established, they would be subordinate to the missionaries, would have to work in the fields, would have to attend religious services, receive instruction, and fight the enemies of the Spaniards. The Indians consented to these; so Captain Urrutia promised to aid them against their foes.

Fray Mariano went to the designated spot, on the south side of the river near its junction with Brushey Creek, between January and April, 1746. With Mariano went a squad of soldiers and mission Indians with ox teams, and they carried agricultural implements and other supplies. History says that the tribes planted potatoes, maize and other grain, and by February 1747, the sum of $5,083.50 had been spent in building the mission; however no final authorization for establishing the mission had been given. From 1746 to 1748 missionaries were at San Xavier from time to time feeding and catechising the Indians until the undertaking was definitely authorized.

In February, 1748 the King of Spain formally authorized the mission; the Viceroy of Mexico received the King' sorder in April, 1748.

San Xavier Mission was formally founded on what is now the Captain P. M. Kolb place in February 1748, two years after it had been tentatively established. Despite the many pioneer difficulties, Fray Mariano's accident which caused him to return to San Antonio; three raids by the Appaches; advérse reports sent to the Viceroy of Mexico who more slowly proceeded in establishing the presidio—San Xavier Mission was prosperous the first year of its existence.

By 1749 three Missions had been founded. The three missions were short distances apart on the south side of the San Xavier River. The first, San Xavier was located on the old Kolb Hill; the second, San Idelfonso below the Kolb Hill, on Ditch Valley Farm. In May, 1749, over 300 persons were under instruction at the missions.

A smallpox epidemic swept the missions in 1750; the Indians from East Texas came and led off many mission inhabitants. The miserably housed soldiers, separated from their families, were insurbordinate and set an evil example to the Indians whom they were to instruct; however, upon an inspection tour in 1750, things did not look so black. There were 480 resident Indians. The books showed a record of 266 baptisms. Building and agriculture were making slow progress; yet the missionaries had begun a ditch and dam project. The ditch was to run through an arroyo near the garrison of San Xavier and continue through the fields of Mission Candelaria. A year later the ditch was unfinished. Today the trail of this ditch can be traced by the giant vegetation, for the ditch has filled in and is very rich, black soil.

For six years the missionaries begged for a presidio; ye,t when they got one, it was a fatal move. The presidio was established in 1751 and from then on trouble started. The commander of the presidio was not satisfied, and his dissatisfaction soon swept the mission, and the inhabitants became dissatisfied, and murder resulted. In 1755 the soldiers, missionaries, and few neophytes went with their belongings to the San Saba River, and later they moved to the springs of the San Marcos River.

Father O'Sullivan of Burlington is to place markers on the sites of the old missions—the sites where the Indians were taught to work for the social group; where they were taught to live for something other than war; where they were taught to make use of natural resources. Such was the life of the pioneers of Texas, who came unannounced, who labored, who endured.

way from those who transact business with the office of District Clerk and from the public at large.

Not only has Mr. Wolf made a record for staying in his office and attending to the business of that office, but has also maintained a record of economy through his terms. By doing all the work himself he has saved the tax payers many thousands of dollars that otherwise would have been paid out for clerk hire.

When the new law prohibiting payment of fees went into effect Mr. Wolf could have asked for and obtained an office assistant. He did not do so, preferring as he has always done, to do the work himself and save the taxpayers this money. During his terms Mr. Wolf by reason of the fact that he has done the work of his office alone, has turned back into the treasury of the county many thousands of dollars that ordinarily are paid out for assistants.

The job of doing the work alone and thus saving the county keeps him busy but he feels that he owes this to the people and has consistently rendered a faithful and efficient service.

Mr. Wolf has been instrumental in extending aid to hundreds by reason of the fact that he helps people fill out applications and various printed forms, notably the old age pension application program and other similar services in times past. These extra courtesies are appreciated by the aged people and all who have been benefitted by his generous aid.

During the campaign and due to the fact that the court will be almost continuously in session, he may not have time to see all the voters, but asks them through The Herald to give him their vote and support. If there be any with whom he is not able to visit, he wants them to know that he will greatly appreciate their vote.

Mr. Wolf is a good Democrat and a widely known citizen. He has held a high place in the Fox hunters Association of Texas and took a prominent part in arranging the details of the last meet. As a special courtesy to his friends he recently mailed 200 invitations to fox hunters to attend a showing of "Voice of Bugle Ann" at the Cameron Theater.

Mr. Wolf asks his friends in all sections of the county to lend their support to his candidacy assuring them and all the people that he will appreciate their vote and support and will pay back in service the investment of their faith in him.

New Kerosene Electrolux Now On Display At Mauritz-Baldwin

Surprising beauty in the interior design of the 1936 Kerosene Electrolux refrigerator which matches the charm and lovliness of the cabinet is the outstanding new feature of this year's models, according to J. T. Baldwin of the Mauritz-Baldwin Corporation who announces the display of the new line now on display in the company's showrooms at Cameron.

The 1936 Electrolux is now not only as beautiful on the inside as it is on the outside, but to these elements of lovliness many new conveniences have been added, thus bringing the product absolutely up to date both from the standpoint of fine appearance and of greater usefulness, Mr. Baldwin stated.

"Many months of study by Servel engineers aided by artists to see what improvements could be made over the 1935 model which women all over the country called the 'best looking refrigerator of them all' have resulted in the creation of a product that represents the last word in automatic refrigeration," said Mr. Baldwin.

"With a reputation of having designed a cabinet excelling all others in beauty, and with a background of superiority in performance because Electrolux is operated with a small flame of kerosene, the company concentrated on efforts to make the interior of the refrigerator harmonize with its exterior. Silence, freedom from repairs and economy of operation are still the features that make Electrolux outstanding among automatic refrigerators.

"The success of Servel engineers and artists has been such that our women customers will be surprised and delighted to see how much beauty has been given to the interior of the 1936 models. One of the striking differences between this year's refrigerator and that of last year is that

THANK HERALD FOR AID TO NURSERY

Dr. B. E. Conner, colored physician who established the day nursery in Cameron for colored children, has written the following communication to The Herald:

Cameron, Texas April 16' 1936.
Editor Cameron Herald,
Cameron, Texas.
Dear Mr. White:

The Board of Directors of the Colored Day Nursery and Play Ground wish to express their sincere appreciation of the very fine spirit of cooperation and interest manifested by you and the Herald. It was kind of you to give us the free copies which we distributed to our people, and to allow space in your paper from time to time for articles.

The quarters effort in our budget drive was a success considering the financial conditions this time of the year. The donations, boxes, church collections and mass meeting effort netted us $60.05, for which we were grateful. The interest of our people has been aroused by the mass meeting staged at one of our local churches. The children and their program were well received, and since then the cooperation has been better. The cut in the paper caught many parents, and expressions showed they appreciated the Herald's help.

The nursery enrollment is now 24; daily attendance 19 to 22; boys club 82; girls reserve 84. It is gratifying to see how happy the kiddies are of their nursery and play ground, and we are pleased to know that the Herald had a part in helping to make this possible. Again we thank you.

Respectfully yours,
B. E. Conner, Chairman,
Campaign Committee.

HUNTER IS IN RACE

Dallas, Texas, April 21.—Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls, twice a strong candidate for governor and runnerup in the close campaign of two years ago, entered the race for the governorship a third time in a formal announcement of his candidacy issued here.

Hunter, an aggressive campaigner, launched his campaign with a sharp arraignment of what he characterized as Governor James V. Allred's "callous neglect of the old people of Texas" with reference to the old age pension law. Terms Hunter applied were "shameful" and "outrageous."

The formal statement of announcement confined itself largely to a caustic review of Governor Allred's record, Hunter explaining that a forthcoming statement would take up specifically the principles and policies he will champion in his forthcoming campaign.

The announcement of his candidacy follows:

"A lead horse that enver presses the collar can't guide the string, and by that old saying I am reminded of young Governor Jimmie. As an economic leader Jimmie Allred is a social laugh—except to the old folks. To them he is a heartache.

"This is not my opinion alone. Five weeks on the road checking sentiment from both those that supported me, and many who did not, conclusively shows that today the majority believes the election of Jaunty Jimmie was a mistake. It takes more than a personable young fellow forever off on some jaunt or other to guide the business of the state government.

Charges Slush Fund

"From all sections I am told that the people now realize that the spending of an enormous slush fund in behalf of Allred during the closing days of the campaign two years ago took away from the friends of my program a victory they had won. The knowledge of the fact alone will, this time, galvanize my supporters into a statewide determined organization reinforced by recruits from former voters who realize their error. I am, therefore, a candidate for governor.

DOUGLAS MUNDINE BURIED IN ROCKDALE

Douglas Mundine, 38, died at the Missouri Pacific Hospital in Palestine at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday, following an illness of more than eight weeks, five of which were spent in the hospital.

The funeral services were held at the home of his father, Dick Mundine, in Taylor, at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The body was then brought to Rockdale for interment in Oaklawn cemetery. The service at the grave was in charge of the Taylor Masonic Lodge, of which he was a member. Pallbearers were chosen from the membership of the Rockdale Masonic Lodge.

Mr. Mundine, formerly a citizen of Taylor, had resided in Rockdale for the past 14 years, during which time he had been a valued employe of the Rockdale, Sandow & Southern Railroad Company. Of an extremely friendly and jovial disposition, he had made hundreds of close friends, to whom his untimely death is a great shock. He was an ardent Mason and rarely missed a meeting of either the Taylor or Rockdale Lodge. He was also a member of the Rockdale Chapter No. 23 Order of Eastern Star.

Surviving are his widow and two children, Douglas, Jr. and Dorothy Louise of Rockdale; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Mundine of Taylor; four sisters, Mrs. R. H. Fitts of Taylor; Mrs. J. M. Kuykendall of Flynn; Mrs. Pat Williams and Mrs. Roy Stroud of Austin; and one brother, R. M. Mundine, Jr., of Taylor.

Banzhaf Details How to Comply With New Act

Farmers who qualify for government grants of money in the New AAA soil conservation program must have at least one acre of soil conserving or soil building crops for every five acres of soil depleting crops in the base acreage, says Geo Banzhaf, Milam county Agricultural Agent.

A farmer who has 100 acres of corn and cotton (soil depleting crops) in the same base period must have planted on his farm in 1936 at least 20 acres of conserving and building crops to participate in the program.

Up to 35 per cent of the base acreage of cotton he may shift from cotton to soil improving or protecting crops and be eligible for payments.

He may shift as much as 15 per cent of the wheat, corn, grain, sorghums, potato or fruit and vegetable base acreage to legumes, cover crops or approved soil building practices and recieive payments. In case of peanuts the greatest shift of acreage for which payments may be made is 20 per cent.

No payments will be made in Texas for food and feed crops like corn or grain sorghums shifted to soil imprvement uses unless it can be shown that these crops have been produced in excess of home needs. In that case the only diversions for which payments will be made are on the protion of the acreage which are in excess of home needs.

Soil conserving payments may be granted to help recompense farmers for the sacrifice involved in giving up a part of their soil depleting cash crops in order to give a chance to improve the land.

"Taken as a whole, the new program helps a farmer shift to a good sound farming plan without loss of income and buying power while the changes are being made," Mr. Banzhaf states.

"Better soil—better citizens, is the way I see it" said Jack Shelton, vice director and state agricultural agent of the Texas Extension Service, in discussing the new agricultural program which concerns itself chiefly with soil conservation and good land use.

"It is provely true that rural communities surrounded by rich farming lands are centers of prosperity, while those situated in the midst of lands that have lost their fertility and no longer produce bountifully are on the down grade and gradually lose, either through bankruptcy or moving

The idea of a cooking appliance able to turn out a savory dinner without the aid of an expert cook has intrigued engineers for many years. But not until today's modern gas range has success crowned their work.

In all divisions of cookery—top burner, broiling and oven—the modern gas range introduces new and higher standards of cooking performance. With its accurate control of cooking heat, its insulated oven, its simmer burners, anyone can prepare a dinner done to a queen's taste.

So see these new ranges. There's a model to fit your family needs. And once you learn how easy one is to use, how economical to operate, how easy to buy . . . you'll see the wisdom of modernizing with a new gas range.

"NEXT THING TO A MIRACLE"

that's what users say about Superfex . . . the refrigerator for rural homes

● It is hard to believe that Superfex actually makes cold by burning kerosene. But it does. And it makes plenty of it—all you need for keeping foods fresh—all you need for freezing ice cubes and desserts. More amazing still, Superfex does these things with the burners going just a small part of the time. About two hours after you light them, they go out automatically. Yet retrigeration goes right on. With one lighting you get twenty-four hours of refrigeration. This short burning time gives you modern refrigeration in its most economical form.

The new models offer the last word in convenience. And their beauty of design and finish harmonize with any type of kitchen or kitchen furnishings. Ask for a free home demonstration. And let us tell you about the easy terms on which you may buy, if you wish.

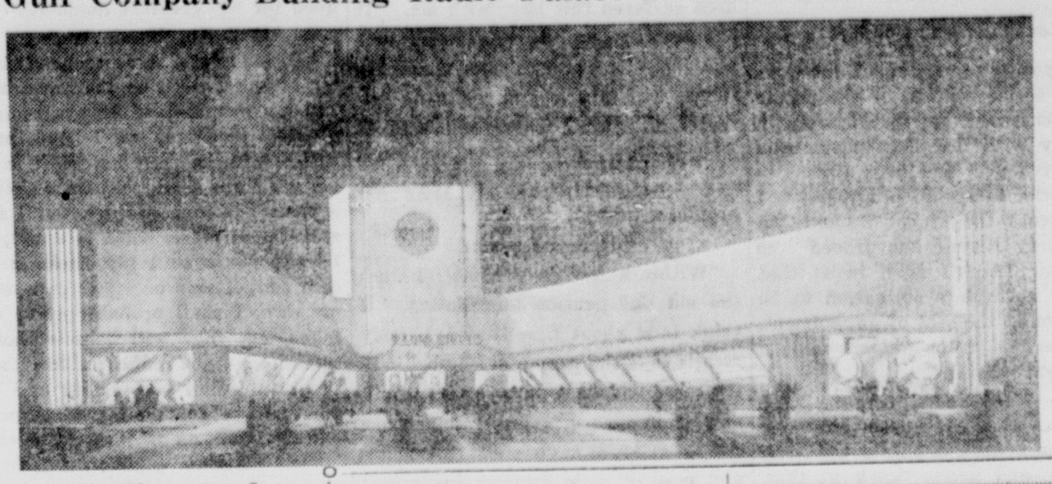
Gulf Company Building Radio Palace at Centennial Exposition



Famous Artists and Radio Entertainers Will Go On Air

Nationally known radio stars will appear in these studios, now nearing completion on the grounds of the Texas Centennial Central Exposition at Dallas, this summer and fall.

Singers, comedians, operatic stars, famous orchestra leaders, stars known from one end of the country to the other, but stars who, up until now, have remained only "voices" to millions of Texans, will appear here in person and put on their air-shows free of charge in this big glass-front studio building.

The radio studios, which were built by Gulf Oil Corporation, are located in almost the exact center of the Exposition grounds. From the patio or court in front of the U-shape building, visitors to the Centennial will be able to see their favorites in action. Inasmuch as both of the big studios, the monitor rooms, and the central control room are in full view through plate glass, the audience in the patio will not only be able to hear the program as it goes out over the air but see how it is produced, enacted and controlled.

The Gulf Radio Studios, with their equipment and the "singing tower" radio installations being provided by this company for the amusement and entertainment of Exposition visitors at twenty other points on the grounds constitute the most elaborate installation of its kind ever set up. Through the installation it will be possible to have in production a tone time twelve different programs, all of them under control from the central studios.

An organization of thirty-five men and women will be required to operate the system. It will include a program director for radio, a program director for public address, production men, continuity writers, announcers, and maintenance technicians.

The studios will be staffed cooperatively by Gulf Oil Corporation and the Texas Centennial Exposition. Facilities of the studios will be used impartially by local radio stations, sectional chains and the national networks.

Programs to be presented through the studios include many commercially sponsored regular features of Texas radio stations and chains, sustaining programs originating from talent which will be drawn to the exposition, and special broadcasts by Texas artists and entertainers, who will come to Dallas to participate in events to be staged there as a part of the Exposition.

"As the door opens, one is at once mpressed with what the Electrolux rtists call a 'rhythmic banding of the helf ribbons' which replaces the old ashioned plain-looking grill-like helving usually seen in refrigera-ors.

"This new shelving, consisting of lternate chronium strips and open paces, some wide and some small, vorked out with an artistic effect, ive the impression of streams of right silky ribbons running toward he back of the refrigerator.

"The shelves themselves have been o arranged that they give the inter-or a harmonious appearance not only vithout interfering with the useful-ess of the shelves, but on the con-rary giving more storage space and ffording more ease in the placing of ood in the refrigerator. The new ar-angement also affords more com-plete circulation of air throughout he interior. The shelving has also een designated to take better care f bottles so that they will not top-le over.

" All-in-all, the whole interior is s trim and efficient as a battleship stripped for action, and yet there is plenty of sparkle, sharp contrast and that soft lustre which is just what the modern housewife wants in a re-frigerator.

"Another innovation in interior dec-oration of the 1936 Electrolux is the ebony like black Bakelite handles which blend with the satin polished chronium finish of the drawers and with the gleaming white porcelain fin-ish of the whole interior.

"The cover of the vegetable fresh-ner has an automatically-controlled metal lid that keeps its contents tightly covered without any atten-tion. The vegetable freshner is simp-ly pulled in and out and the lid lifts and falls into place.

"The equipment of the 1936 model comprises all the things that aided in making marketing so successful in 1935, namely, the flat usable top, durable door gaskets, controlled de-frosting, trigger tray release, felxi-ble rubber grid, split shelves, adjust-able top shelves, bottle and fruit baskets, and through insulation along with the new improvements. Nothing that affords real convenience has been omitted, but all useless, dirt trapping gadgets have been left out.

"By viewing the models in our show rooms, housewives will appre-ciate the full extent to which the manufacturers have realized the de-sire to furnish a refrigerator which conforms to the modern trend of making the kitchen not merely a place in which to prepare meals, but a room that will have as much attrac-tiveness as any other part of the home rather than a scene of drudg-ery."

"A small flame of kerosene does all the work of keeping the kerosene Electrolux running. A single burner requires lighting only once and the five gallon tank which holds the kerosene requires filling just once a week or ten days."

away, many of the commercial estab-lishments which prospered when the lands were productive," Shelton said.

"When you find people living on a fertile soil you find them living in the better type homes, riding in bet-ter cars, driving the best teams. On poor soils you find them in poorer homes, with very little paint on the buildings and fences."

The soil reflects itself on the peo-ple who live on it and on ther crops and livestock. As soil becomes de-pleted and you grow cattle on that soil that have small bones, lacking the weight and bloom that are found on cattle grown on good soil. If the soil is important, why shouldn't it be one of the main objectives of the farm program to build up that soil? How are we going to accomplish that? With terraces, pastures, legumes and livestock."

The soil Conservation and Domes-tic Allotment Act given Texas far-mers and ranching a great opportu-nity to recognize their business so as to rebuild and reestablish prosperity on the farms and ranches in Texas.

"The reception given the program as it has been presented to the peo-ple by the County Agricultural Agent shows that the situation has been realized, and the new act came at a time that it was very welcome," Mr. Shelton said.

County Agent.

Hunter

"My position on public questions and the social welfare of the people is well known. I am instinctively in sympathy with the plain people and the unprivileged, and from time to time as the campaign progresses I shall discuss the urgent issues on with Jaunty Jimmie has proved so vacilitating. And I shall insist that it is the governor's obligation to be a governor at the seat of government, not a glorified drum major leading a tournament of roses.

Is Week-End Governor

"An executive in Austin only two days or so a week is only a week-end governor—and pretty weak at that. He can hardly be expected to know what it is all about. The first office of Texas entails constantly weighty duties and one should be on the job in person for a study and perform-ance of these duties. As governor I will stay in the state and on the job except when duties require my ser-vices elsewhere. I shall be generous and divide honors when ribbons are to be cut at bridge openings, school parades are to be led, and when some of our thousands of beautiful queens are to be crowned. I will not be a galloping, gallivanting governor.

"In the last campaign I was the target for a tremendous barrage of false propoganda and personal abuse unloosed through the use of great sums of money. This bilge was spread by hired calumniators was circulat-ed in the tons of printed matter and broadcast over our expensive state-wide networks. Yet I bear no rancor, nurse no grudge, although I was hurt. A blow below the belt is a shock to a man's sense of what is just, and my good wife and our chil-dren suffered this hurt with me. It has been my experience that one who will misstate facts to gain your con-fidnce will misuse you while he has that confidence. I feel certain a great many voters made that discovery too late. There is only gall in the fat promises unkept.

Old Age Pension

"Within a few days I shall discuss the old age pension amendment. I think it is about time that somebody recalls that the people demanded it in the most widely popular constitution-al poll on record. But sometimes young fellows have short memories and need a little jogging up, and I shall have something to do about that. It is shameful that one in high office should make a political foot-ball of depleted lives and poverty in the twilight of life. Every person within the age scale who is not legal-ly disqualified should receive this so-cial insurance, for such it is, rather than a pension. Allred's callous neg-lect of the old people of Texas is out-rageous! He should shudder to be alone with his conscience.

"When the occasion warrants, I shall make myself plain and under-stood on other public issues of cur-rent importance. You may be sure I will not equivocate. I never have and I am too set in my ways to change a lifelong habit of candor.

"It will be impossible for me to make a campaign with all the hoopla and tub thumping characteristic of the kind of circus maximums conduct-ed by Jaunty Jimmy and his troupe. I have no such source of money, but neither have I any "obligations" to hamstring me or cramp my style—in doing, so far as my ability, the most good for the greatest number.

Will Not Evade Duties

"To study and solve problems if in-terest and benefit to the government and my people have always been my greatest pleasure, and I hope that it will be afforded me hereafter in lar-ger measure than possible to me as a private citizen. As governor I shall seek sound cousel when in doubt, and I shall never turn my back on sin-cere suggestions or views opposed to my own. I shall probably make mis-takes, but they will be mistakes of commission, not omission, for I shall never be guilty of inaction and pro-crastination nor will I evade express-ing my views on all matters of state.

"The place for a governor is in the governor's office, and his first duty is application to the business and best interests which he is under oath to serve, namely, Texas and its people. Nothing could be more appealing to a governor with the welfare of the peo-ple as a whole at heart. It may be de-pendded upon, therefore, that I shall stay in the governor's office with the doors propped wide so that the people interested in state government may find me ever at their service.

on earth during its span? Twenty-seven years later, in 1836, there came upon the scene a crop of humorists including Bret Harte, W. S. Gilbert, Francis Burnand, who was long editor of Punch, and even Mark Twain, for though he was born just before the New Year dawned, his birth was within the same twelemonth as the others.

Then there is the further curious circumstance that in 1836 Charles Dickens, who was then 24 years old, should begin all at once to amuse the world with his "Pickwick Papers." It causes us to wonder if perhaps the cycle has been completed and 1936 will see another crop.

FARM CLUB NEWS

"I found out what to do about the cut worm cutting down my tomatoes", says Ruth Jennings, member of the Sharp 4-H club, at a recent meeting of the club. "Just wrap a piece of brown paper around the stem of the tomato plant before planting. Then after set out, water the plant to settle the dirt firmly around the plants." Ruth states.

In spite of dry weather, hot winds and cut worms, Ruth has approximately 150 tomato plants growing in her garden.

"The grape cuttings which I turn upside down in a hole and covered with soil in January have rooted 100 per cent, reports Theresa Anderle, Ad Hall 4-H club member.

A bundle of 13 grape cutting was inverted in a post hole and covered with sand in January. In April this package dug up to find that each of the cuttings had from 4 to 6 inch roots and were ready to be planted in the orchard.

Theresa says the rooting of cuttings by this method gives the root system two months growth before the leaves put out, which enable the grape to survive the mid summer droughth in a better fashion.

Refreshing Relief When You Need a Laxative

Because of the refreshing relief it has brought them, thousands of men and women, who could afford much more expensive laxatives, use Black-Draught when needed. It is very economical, purely vegetable, highly effective. . . Mr. J. Lester Roberson, well known hardware dealer at Martinsville, Va., writes: "I certainly can recommend Black-Draught as a splendid medicine. I have taken it for constipation and the dull feelings that follow, and have found it very satisfactory."

Raby Hill Case Goes Before High Court April 29

The case of Raby Hill vs. State came up for submission before the Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin the 15th of this month, but upon request of the State, the court granted it two weeks to examine and answer brief of the appellant. The case will again be before the Court of Criminal Appeals on the 29th of April and it is thought that the court will pass upon the case before it adjourns the last Saturday in June.

Raby Hill has been in the jail here since September 22, for the murder of George Richards, city nightwatchman. He was convicted in October and given 99 years in the penitentiary for Richard's murder. Motion for new trial was overruled in district court here November 8 by Judge W. G. Gillis, and then notice of appeal with the court of criminal appeals was given by Hill's lawyers, DeWitt Bowner of Temple and John Watson of Cameron.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

MILAM COUNTY TEACHERS MEET

Last Monday night April 13, the Milam County Teachers Association had its regular meeting for the present school year at Rockdale. We were received most cordially by the Rockdale faculty.

At the meeting previous to this, it was voted that school board members of the county would become honorary members of the Association. The local school board, to show their interest and public spirit mindness, accepted the invitation to be guests of the faculty, and every member attended; a record that we are proud of and that can not be beaten.

An interesting program was rendered. We were fortunate in having Miss Parmlee from the State Department of Education and the head of the music department to help us sing and to tell us more about music. We enjoyed the talk given by Rev. O. C. Acrey of Cameron on "Teacher Responsibility and Character Building." We enjoyed the songs sung by Irene Fulcher and Ruby Alta Starnes and the piano solo given by Miss Alice Eloise Barclay.

Mr. Reat gave a report of an outstanding committee. Sectional meetings were held for the purpose of electing permanent officers next year, but due to the general program being longer than had been anticipated, all the sectional meetings did not organize.

The organization can be worth a great deal to every teacher if he will let it. We never get more out of a thing than we put into it. If we can contribute to and receive from an organization, we should be for it; but if we can and will not, we are not very interested in our own profession and can't hope to receive the best results. The other fellow's idea is in a lot of instances a help to us in solving our unsolved problems.

Let's make the association worthwhile next year and apply the old saying "Knockers never win; winners never knock."

WORLD HISTORY REPORT

The world history students are still progressing and learning very much about the world in which we live, although sometimes controversies arise over the question of importance of the position of women.

For the last few weeks the class has been studying national unity with the Industrial Revolution following.

The class has drawn maps showing various countries in the time between 1815 and 1870. They have also made oral reports on subjects of interest; all being of intellectual importance also.

$2,500,000 ON HAND FOR OLD AGE PENSION

Austin, Texas, April 21.—Difficult though the task is in a state the size of Texas, regulation of the liquor industry brought in a gross revenue amounting to almost $2,500,000 during the five months since the Liquor Control board began operating last November 15.

"The board has encountered many problems of administration and enfocement that other license-system states, which are smaller, may not have been troubled with," said Administrator Charles R. Miller. "Experiences of other states have been a benefit, of course, but there are some phases of liquor control peculiar to Texas which the board has had to work out by itself, through trial and error. If mistakes have been made, they are the mistakes natural to any sort of pioneering."

Actual gross revenue collected under the Liquor Control act, Administrator Miller revealed, was $2,401,851.37, a figure including all permit fees and excise taxes. This does not take into consideration, however, the approximately $25,000 paid in fines from criminal cases, which goes to the counties where the cases are disposed of, he pointed out.

Nearly $100,000 of the gross revenue coming from beer licenses is assigned to the state's general fund, but three fourths of the balance is earmarked for the old age pension funds and the schools, after expenses are deducted.

"Of first importance in this work," Miller declared, " is fair but firm enforcement of the law. When that is attained, with the assistance of local officers and the endorsement of the public, then maximum collection of revenues will follow, benefitting both the old-age pensioners and the schools. It is this thought that is uppermost in the minds of those men connected with liquor regulations."

Besides bulging revenues, Miller reported the enforcement campaign had been speeded up with definitely successful results. Already on record were 709 criminal cases against liquor law violators, with many others filed but not yet reported by inspectors in the field. Of 3228 cases disposed of, eight resulted in jail terms and only nine ended in acquitals.

The administrator said the law-abiding public was increasingly giving its approval to the state's efforts towards stricter enforcement, especially in the larger centers of population where the campaigns have been widely publicized in the local press.

"When the people come to recoznize definitely and finally that success of the liquor control act—and by the same token the success of the old age pension system—depends to a large extent upon themselves, our job will be more than half done," Miller predicted.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Howell of Rockdale spent Monday in Cameron with Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Howell.

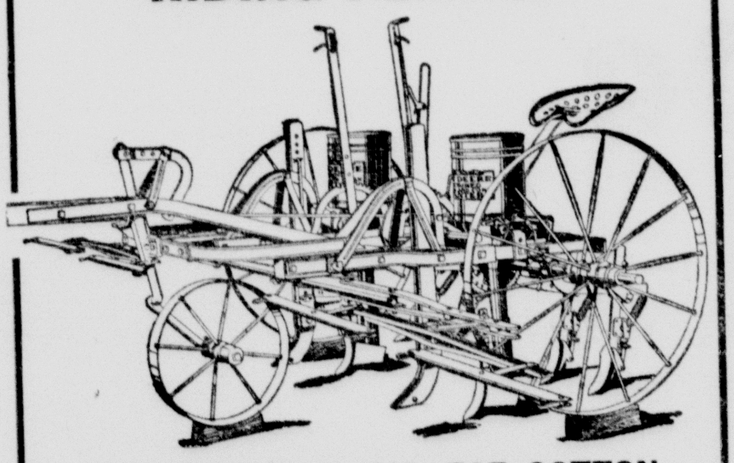
THE ACCURATE, TWO-ROW RIDING PLANTER



JOHN DEERE NO. 210—FOR COTTON, CORN AND PEANUTS

Here's the riding cotton and corn planter that was designed especially to reduce planting costs for Texas farmers. Its accuracy and its adaptability to all methods of cotton planting have made it a big favorite.

The John Deere Saw-Tooth Type Steel Picker Wheel picks out the cotton seed one at a time, or more if desired, in any quantity per acre. It picks out the lint and trash with the seed—no clogging in the hopper. Corn, sorghum, peanuts, and other crops are planted accurately by the use of John Deere Natural Drop Seed Plates.

Tongue truck relieves horses of neck weight and makes machine run steadily. Shovel openers and coverers have reversible points. Runner openers can be furnished in place of shovels if desired. Fertilizer attachment and press wheels can also be furnished.
